

The Unofficial Agricola (Revised Edition) Compendium

Compiled by Lumin Sperling. Updated February 15, 2024

The majority of this document is a sorted list of improvements and occupations in the 2016 Revised Edition of the game Agricola, also known as AG2. It will not cover the Farmers of the Moor expansion.

You can search this document by using Ctrl+F or Cmd+F to find specific cards (by name or number) and their rulings.

Each entry in this list contains the card text, card number, the clarifications given in the rulebook or appendix (where available), and additional rulings. Many of these rulings are based on clarifications by Uwe Rosenberg, the game author, and employees of Lookout Games, the game publisher. New rulings will be added when they are posted on the boardgamegeek.com or play-agricola.com forums. At the time of the most recent update, the official rulebooks and appendices are available for download in English and German at <https://lookout-spiele.de/en/games/agricolare.html>.

Official ERRATA will be in red text, bolded and highlighted.

Some of these rulings are not official, and may be changed at any time. These unofficial rulings are enclosed in angle brackets «like this» and can be accepted or ignored as you wish. I have based these rulings on my extensive playing experience with the Revised Edition, both online and in live, official tournaments.

The format and structure of this compendium is based almost entirely on the terrific work by Eugène van der Pijll.

Many thanks to Chris Deotte, Eric Ho, Joe Brown, BGG@bearperson, and Hanno Girke for (directly or indirectly) providing accurate digital data of cards and their text. Thanks to Grzegorz Kobiela (“Ponton”) for continually, actively responding to rules questions since the very beginning. Additional thanks to all those who have helped with small edits throughout the years, and those who have volunteered to proofread new deck(s).

Specific Terminology and Definitions

Round - There are 3 or 4 phases of a round, starting with the preparation phase. Effects “before the start of the round” occur before the preparation phase begins.

Preparation phase - Drawing a new action space card, obtaining goods/components/effects placed by card effects, and adding goods to accumulation spaces.

Work phase - Players placing people on action spaces until all players have placed all of their people.

Returning home phase - After all people are placed, the people return home.

Harvest phase - Rounds 4, 7, 9, 11, 13, & 14 end with a 3-phase Harvest: harvesting crops, feeding family, and breeding.

- The breeding phase is the only time in the game where you may not eat or exchange animals. However, eating or exchanging animals is possible after breeding and before the next round or scoring begins.

Action space - all spaces on which you can place a person.

Round spaces - the spaces numbered 1-14

Action space cards - The 14 action spaces which are placed on round spaces throughout the game.¹

Family member - a meeple representing one of your farmers. You start with 2 and have a maximum of 5.

Person / people - generic term for family member(s). Includes newborns. These are the tokens you use to take actions.

(An)other player - Effects for another player only trigger when any player but you meets the described condition

Person's action / Turn - all the things that a single person does on an action space(s), which may be multiple actions.²

- Cards providing actions that you can take without placing a person are not considered a person's actions or turn.
- Cards providing the opportunity to place another person immediately are giving a second (or third, etc.) turn.

Placing a person / Occupying an action space with a person - Taking a person from your house and moving it onto an action space. This does not include taking the actions provided by the action space. Placing a person is a turn.³

Using an action space - First placing a person, then taking at least one action provided by the action space or taking a replacement action (allowed by a card you played.)

Each time you use [action space] - has been ruled to be before taking the actions provided by the action space.

- Can think of the timing as being at the comma in the definition of Using an action space.

Unoccupied - if an action space has no person on it, it is described as unoccupied.

- The terms "free", "empty" or other possible terms are not used to describe this situation.

Occupied - if an action space has one or more persons on it, it is described as occupied.

Starting player - The player who currently holds the starting player token (even if another player started that round.)

- ERRATA: No effect of any card can allow an occupied “Meeting Place” action space to be used again.⁴

Goods - collective term for resources, animals and food.

- This use of the term is new, it used to be "items" and goods did not include food. "Items" does not exist anymore.

Resources - collective term for both crops and building resources.

Crops - collective term for grain and vegetables.

Building resources - collective term for wood, clay, reed and stone.

Animals - collective term for sheep, wild boar and cattle.

Obtain - obtaining a good is the umbrella term for all ways to move a good into your personal supply, no matter where it comes from. This includes using an accumulation space, getting a good from the general supply for whatever reason, harvesting a grain (or anything else) or getting a good from a card in front of you.

Costs - When you (have to) pay goods, you must use goods from your supply.

Building cost - a set of goods you have to pay for rooms, stables, fences, renovations, and cards.

Occupation cost - an amount of food you have to pay to play an occupation on a “Lessons” action space or a card effect.

² Uwe, Ponton, and myself on BGG

³ Ponton on BGG

⁴ Ponton on BGG

Adjacent - if used alone, adjacent always means orthogonally adjacent.

- To count other cases of adjacency, a card should say "orthogonally or diagonally adjacent".

(Wooden / Clay / Stone) House - generic term for your house independent of the material it is made of.

- There is no distinction between a hut and a house anymore.

Used farmyard spaces - A space with a tile or stable on it, or if it is (directly or indirectly) surrounded by fences.

- A space is unused if it is empty or if there are just goods on it.

On your farm(yard) - Components on your board, in your supply, or on cards such as a field card or animal-holding card.

- Excludes people, stables, and fences you have not grown or built yet.
- Excludes cards that hold goods that you can get in the future.

On your farm(yard) board - Components on, printed on, or in-between the 15 spaces of your board.

Field - the new generic term for both "field tile" and "field card".

Field tile - term for the tiles you place on your farmyard board.

- During scoring, only field tiles give you points.

Field card - term for occupations and improvements that self-identify as fields.

Pastures - spaces on your farmyard board surrounded by fences.

Text in parentheses - If a text makes any functional change or addition to the card, it does not belong in parentheses.

When you play this card - What follows in the same sentence happens only once and only at the time the card is played.

Once - If an effect triggers "once", it may only happen one time in addition to the normal English interpretation of "once".⁵

Each time - replaces "Whenever" to say that what follows, happens each time the condition is fulfilled.

- Makes the distinction between "When" and "Whenever" clearer, especially in the German.

Unconditional Sow - A "Sow" action is considered unconditional if it:

- Does not limit the number of fields in which you may sow,
- Lets you sow as many goods in a field as is usual for that type, and
- Allows every type of good to be sown in a field as is usual for that field.

Oven - ovens are improvements whose name ends with "oven". A baking symbol is no longer required.

Well - wells are improvements whose name ends with "well".

Common Points of Confusion for Original Edition Players

Players of the Original Edition Agricola (with EIK+ decks) will find that there are some rules/effects which happen differently in the Revised Edition. I highly recommend you read the previous section of terminology carefully. Below is an attempt to summarize the mistakes I most commonly see:

- Fields are scored just like they were in Original, where you want 5+ field tiles placed on your farmyard. However, cards like Beanfield are now officially fields for prerequisites.
 - Beanfield + 3 field tiles = 2 points for scoring, and 4 fields for prerequisites.
- There is a difference between a "___ action" and "the ___ action space". Read cards with these phrases carefully.
 - Cards requiring a "___ action" may not be activated unless you literally get that action!
- It is now possible to use an action space and use no action given by the space, if and only if a card allows you to substitute one (or more) of those actions with another action «or effect» (see Freshman A097.)
- There is now a tie-breaker of building resources remaining in supply.
- Resources are spent from your supply to earn bonus points for Joinery, etc. and do not count for the tiebreaker.⁶
- Food now counts as a good.
- In the breeding phase, you only get the newborn animal if you can accommodate it.

⁵ Ponton on BGG

⁶ Ponton on BGG

- In the feeding phase, you may no longer withhold food (tokens) to intentionally beg more than you need to.⁷
 - Other goods convertible to food may still be withheld during the feeding phase in order to beg.
- Note carefully cards which say “before”, “after”, or other timing specifics. There is an interim period between any two consecutive things (phases, rounds, actions, etc.)⁸
 - Every part of the Agricola game flow comes with 4 associated timings. In order, these are (1) “before” = “immediately before”; (2) the normal part of the game flow; (3) immediately after; (4) after.
- Each time you use [action space] is before the actions on the space. See definition in previous section.
- Starting Player: a new rule prevents the SP space, Meeting Place, from being taken a second time in a round.
 - ~~Additionally, if you take Meeting Place, you must become SP (it can no longer be minor-only.)⁹~~
- ~~Cards like Work Certificate A082 and Animal Teacher A168 only trigger on turns after the turn it's played.^{40 11}~~
- More to be added as I see/remember them.

The Revised Edition Deck Structure

Each deck of cards in the Revised Edition follows a set structure. Each deck of 180 cards provides the same number of occupations and minor improvements providing extra resources, bonus points, ranching actions, etc. at each player count. For example, cards 001-009 in all decks are passing minor improvements which do not get played onto a tableau. The specific details of the deck structure can be inferred from the “Revised” tab of Eric Ho’s Agricola Card Database. Asterisks (*) at the end of the card numbers denote that a card is found in a base set, and not in a 120-card expansion set. The asterisks have been omitted in this document, but can be found on the physical cards themselves.

You can find the details on how all cards have been released in deck format on this great breakdown by Stuart Franklin.

Small Potters Oven C060, Witches Dance Floor D025

- Not available online, and insufficient playtesting to determine if these cards are too strong or annoying.

Brewery Pond B040 (everything except normal 4-player games)

- Very strong PWR (>5.0 or >6.0) on all BGA formats except 4-player with no additional spaces.

Geologist B121 (2-player games only)

- Is effectively but not strictly better than Clay Worker, which had PWR >5.0 in Original Version 2-player games
- I am not familiar with 2-player beyond base game, and many expansion cards might also be worthy 2p bans.

PWR is a statistic of how often a card wins, given that it was played and drafted in an online game database. In a deck of 500 cards, PWR may be interpreted as the percentage of winning farms/tableaus featuring that card [and generically, a deck of M cards → PWR * (500 / M) winning farms have the card.] The above statistics cited apply to play-agricola.com's database unless otherwise noted. Cards with a PWR statistic above 5.5 (sometimes 5.0) are generally banned within the play-agricola.com community.

Banned Cards on BoardGameArena (BGA)

Lookout Games and the BGA developer team have kindly allowed a banlist for the competitive online playerbase. Due to current site limitations there can only be one banlist, and it is built with 4-player games in mind. All BGA players are welcome to contribute their thoughts on the banlist on this forum thread, from which the developers will collate a consensus after new card releases and some ends of competitive seasons. As of the most recent update to this file, 819 out of 840 printed cards are implemented on BGA and the banlist is:

- Big Country A033
- Chapel A039
- Shaving Horse A048

Quality of rules interpretation and enforcement

- BGA developers have been in constant contact with the publisher and myself since the very beginning.
- While there are occasional bugs, errors in the implementation are incredibly rare.
- When in doubt, you can probably trust the implementation more than yourself (I do.)

Changes to functionality for ease of programming

- The board is set up a little differently, to be more robustly displayed on a wide variety of devices.
- Card effects which are affected by the board differences are prepended with "UPDATED:".
- There are less than five other cards also prepended with "UPDATED:" and slightly changed for ease of programming.

BGA's Elo rating and Karma systems

- BGA uses an Elo-style rating system, adapted to multiplayer games. This YouTube video explains more details.
- BGA's karma system starts all new users at 75% karma. Players get +1% (up to 100%) for every completed game. Quitting games is -10% karma for the first recent (I don't know how recent) offense and -20% thereafter.
- In 2-player games, you can concede (different button from quit) halfway or later through a game and lose 0 karma.
- When creating/searching for games, you can filter by Elo tiers and by minimum karma.
- Moderation for breaking site rules can heavily impact both Elo and karma, depending on severity.

"Arena"

- Arena is BGA's competitive mode using a single ruleset every season, voted on by the "most active" players.
- New seasons start roughly every Jan/Apr/Jul/Oct 10th. Real-time games are ranked together with turn-based.
- Players are ranked by tier, ending with "Elite." In Elite, every player has an Elo-style rating along with their normal one.

"Tournaments"

- These are almost exclusively informal tournaments organized by everyday players.
- Every tournament can have its own ruleset, elimination style, and playing hours. Be sure to check the details.
